

many italian smes are seriously considering minibonds and there are many good reasons why, given current bank-enterprise relationships: however it is necessary to understand exactly what it is about and to try to move from generic media information to more qualified details on the subject.